

Below are some examples of structured arrangements that students may already know as these quantities are common in everyday life.

