Hint

If the linking cube model shown represents a whole 1, how many individual cubes are needed to make that 1?

What fractional part of that model would one cube be?

Does it matter that the numerator is larger than the denominator?