

Hint

Since the diagram is an illustration of a composite figure, you may need to split the room into two parts when you figure how much tile will be needed.

To determine the amount of crown molding, you can work with the figure as it is drawn. There are some missing dimensions that will need to be determined before you do any other computation.

