

Possible Solutions

- If the family has extra money in a savings account, transfer the necessary amount into the account used to pay for the repair.
- Work with the budget to see if it could be adjusted to allow for making payments on a short-term loan.
- Look for budget items that are considered more of a luxury or convenience than a necessity (eating out, going to see a movie, other forms of entertainment) and use this money to help pay for the cost
- Try to get earn some extra money (a second job, do odd jobs for friends/family/acquaintances, etc.)
- Sell household or personal items
