Hint

Critical pieces of information would include things like axes, the origin, and ordered pairs. Why are these important? How do they guide one's actions when graphing/interpreting a graph?