

Hint

When creating a scatterplot using discrete data points, you may need to alter the scale on one or both axes to accommodate larger numbers. With discrete data points, you are working with individual pairs of numbers that may or may not fit a specific pattern or rule. Therefore, you should not draw a line through the points.

