

Hint

- Students were given a real-world situation and asked to create a table and generate an equation that demonstrates that relationship. Remember, this is a multiplicative relationship, because each piece of candy costs $0.35. Therefore, once students identify that relationship, they can determine the cost for 5, 10, 15 and 20 pieces of gum. This relationship and the given variables will help students create their equation.