

Standardized algorithms are the traditional computations used to add, subtract, multiply and divide.