Hint

The rate of change is found by calculating the measure of the vertical change divided by the measure of the horizontal change.