

Adjacent angles are two angles that share the same vertex and one common side, but the two angles do not overlap.